Spectrum for Parents

Help your child learn, keep up and choose their future, with support for you too.

About the programme

Parents are a child's first and longest-serving teachers, but nobody hands them a manual. Spectrum for Parents gives you the same techniques our teachers use, a clear view of how your child is doing at school, expert advice on subjects, careers and universities, and a confidential space to talk through the harder parts of raising a learner.

Highlights

- SuperLearners for Parents. Four sessions on the memory, reading and review techniques your child learns, and how to run calm, effective homework time.
- Keeping up with school. A Spectrum teacher reviews your child's school work every month and sends a short plan of what to practise.
- Career and university counselling. Interests, strengths and subject choices, then a written plan for degrees, universities and careers, linked to our placements and Career Pathways.
- University application support. Shortlists, personal statements, references, interviews and deadlines, for Pakistan and abroad.
- Parent guidance counselling. Confidential one-to-one sessions on motivation, screen time, exam stress and routines.
