To the Managing Director, Head of People or Corporate Responsibility Lead

An invitation to host Spectrum students

Dear colleague,

Most young people never see how an organisation really works until their first job, and many choose degrees and careers without that knowledge. Spectrum placements change this, and we would like to invite your organisation to be part of it.

Spectrum Advanced Learning runs structured placement programmes for students aged 10 to 18: the Junior Executive Programme (Industry, and Community Immersion), the AI Programme, the Cyber Security Programme, and six-month Career Pathways in law, public administration, politics and policy, journalism and other fields. Students arrive prepared after an Academy week, work on real tasks with a named mentor, and finish by presenting a practical recommendation to your leaders.

What hosting gives your organisation

- Meet future talent early. Get to know motivated young people years before graduate recruitment, and show them what your profession or cause really involves.
- Fresh ideas for real problems. Students finish with a practical recommendation, prototype or campaign built around a real need you set.
- Safe and well run. Spectrum plans, supervises and assesses. Mentors are briefed on safeguarding and never work alone with students.
- Visible impact. An impact report and recognition you can use in community, corporate social responsibility and sustainability reporting, with your approval.
- Staff development. Mentoring builds your team's coaching and leadership skills and is consistently rewarding for the people who do it.
- Shape the next generation. Help young people choose degrees and careers with real knowledge, not guesswork.

What hosting involves

- Before. A short call, a one-page agreement, a risk assessment and a mentor briefing from Spectrum.
- Academy week. Students are prepared at Spectrum before they arrive: professional conduct, safety and your sector.
- On placement. Usually 4 days a week for 4 weeks. One Spectrum supervisor for every 8 students. A named mentor gives 1–2 hours a week.
- Final week. Students present their project or recommendation to your leaders. You receive a short impact report.

We welcome hosts from national and multinational companies, audit and professional services firms, media houses, NGOs, research institutes, public bodies and technology teams. You choose the cohort (March–April, June–July, August–September or October–November) and the number of students. Spectrum handles planning, supervision, safeguarding and assessment.

With warm regards,

The Spectrum Advanced Learning team
